++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Storm Barra brings coastal gales and squally showers overnight.

This Evening and Tonight:
A very windy night with frequent showers, these heavy in places and mixed with hail. Severe gales will affect southwestern coastal areas, with some gusts to gale force possible inland, especially near the showers, making for difficult travelling conditions. Minimum temperature 1 deg C (34 deg F).

Wednesday:
Another very windy day with frequent showers, these heavy and wintry over higher ground, and banding together to give more prolonged downpours in the afternoon. Gales continuing near southwestern coasts. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Dry at first with lighter winds on Thursday, but rain arriving in the afternoon. Cold, breezy with sunshine and showers Friday. Milder on Saturday, though largely cloudy with patchy rain.
